A New Novel Ready This Day

By the Author of "The Common Lot"

Mr. Robert Herrick's new novel Together

"Journeys end—in lovers meeting"—and novels end—in marriage, so they say. Yet perhaps Mr. Herrick's novel gets a part of its deep interest from the very boldness of the plot and plan which violates the old rule. For his novel begins where most end—at the wedding; it is a novel about married people that will interest married people. Incidentally, it is quite the keenest, clearest picture of certain phases of modern society yet written.

Mr. Churchill's new novelMr. Crewe's Career is easily the best selling new novel in the United States, and is reported as one of "the leaders" in England, where they are captivated by Victoria. "She has that quality of vivid freshness, tenderness, and independence which makes so many modern American heroines delightful," says the London Times.

"Another chapter in his broad, epical delineation of the American spirit. . . . It is an honest and fair story . . . it is very interesting; and the heroine is a type of woman as fresh, original, and captivating as any that has appeared in American novels for a long time past."—The Outlook. Illustrated.

Frank Danby's new novelThe Heart of a Child

"Conspicuously above the general level of contemporary fiction . . . we feel that we are being allowed to probe a woman's inmost soul, and are stirred to mingled laughter and tears at the truth and the pathos of the picture."—Bookman.

"Mrs. Frankau's best novel . . . has a picturesque quality that keeps the reader alert . . . She compels us to see the things she describes as she herself sees them and she furthermore convinces us of their truth."—Boston Transcript.

Barbara's new bookThe Open Window

Tales of the Months told by "Barbara," Author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife," "People of the Whirlpool," etc. Just ready.

"Barbara reminds one of Elizabeth of 'German Garden' fame in more ways than one, but being American she is broader, more versatile and humorous."—Evening Post, Chicago.

Mr. F. Marion Crawford'sThe Primadonna

"Mr. Crawford is at his best in this romance. He tells an absorbing story, and he places at the center of it a woman whose character is full of interest. . . . It is a dramatic beginning, and Mr. Crawford goes on as he begins . . . the whole tangled business becomes more and more exciting, and we follow the Primadonna through the proceedings with breathless interest."—New York Tribune. With frontispiece.

Jack London's latest novelThe Iron Heel

"London is one of the half dozen Americans with the real story-telling gift."

—Baltimore Sun.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just brought out the new special edition of Miss Alcott's most famous story, "Little Women," containing all the pictures by Frank T. Merrill that appeared in the original $5 illustrated edition. The publishers have fixed no retail price on the book.

THE R. E. LEE COMPANY have now ready an unusual novel dealing with church and state in South America, entitled "The Power Supreme," by Francis C. Nicholas. The novel, the publishers feel hopeful, will attract wide interest and create some discussion. William Kirkpatrick has furnished a frontispiece which is reproduced in colors. Small, Maynard & Co. will supply the trade.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out "Practical Hints on Modelling, Design, and Mural Decoration," by Henry F. W. Ganz; "The Educational Process," by Arthur Cary Fleshman, the sixth volume in Lippincott's Educational Series; "The Cotton-Weaver's Hand-Book," by Henry V. Heylin; also, "Definitions in Navigation and Nautical Astronomy," by P. Groves-Showell.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY publish this week "The Call of the Waters," by Katharine R. Crowell, which forms part of the Inter-denominational Home Mission Study Course. This volume takes up the study of the frontier, moving westward, showing in each successive stage how Christianity was imbedded in the foundations of America; also, "Esperanto in Fifty Lessons," by Edmond Privat, author of "Esperanto at a Glance."

L. C. PAGE & Co. will bring out next week in their Cathedral Series a volume on "The Cathedrals and Churches of Northern Italy," by T. Francis Bumpus. The text of this volume is authoritative and scholarly, combining a description of the technical beauties of the cathedrals and the legends surrounding them in an entertaining manner. The illustrations are reproductions in duogravures from photographs. The cover design and many minor decorations are by Blanche McManus.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY will publish shortly a delightful volume for the unconventional traveller, by Frank Rutter, entitled "Path to Paris," by means of which the reader, with much keen pleasure and little or no effort, arrives at numerous points of interest between Havre and Paris. It is a rambling record, a sentimental journey along river banks, under bridges, through market places and open fields, past grey cathedral walls and towers, quays and castles, huts and ruins, all of which have been successfully pictured by Hanslip Fletcher.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish on the 15th inst. "A First Course in Biology," by L. H. Bailey and Walter Coleman, prepared to meet the need for unit courses in biology in secondary schools in place of the former isolated courses in botany, zoology and physiology. The book is divided into three parts: (1) plant biology, (2) animal biology, (3) human biology. They will at the same time publish "A Course of Study for the Kindergarten Grades of the Bible School," by Lois Sedgwick Palmer, who through long experience as supervisor of kindergarten teaching in a large Buffalo Sunday-school obtained the material for this course of study; "A French Grammar," by Professor Hugo Thieme and John Effinger, both of the University of Michigan; also, the third volume of the Eversley edition of Tenneyson, "Early Emerson Poems" in the Pocket Classic series will be published on July 22.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

- Book for children, detailing the various ways in which people in all quarters of the globe move about and transport their goods or send messages. The writer is in the faculty of the State Normal School at Los Angeles, California, and is the author of several similar readers, under such titles as "How we are fed," etc.
- Cleveland, Stephen Grover. Good citizenship. Phil., Henry Altemus Co., [1908.] c. 5-78 p. S. cl., 50 c.
- Mr. Cleveland's recent death makes his words of weight. He impresses the responsibility that rests on every voter. He saw real danger in our boundless, unquestioning faith in our national destiny. The American citizen avoids the uncomfortable thought that any omission on his part can check American progress or endanger our country's continued development. Mr. Cleveland seeks to inspire an unswerving devotion to the highest ideals of civic righteousness.

- Copleston, Bp. Reginald Stephen. Buddhism: primitive and present; in Magadha and in Ceylon. 2d ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 16+301 p. O. cl., *$3 net.
- Author is Bishop of Calcutta. The first edition was published in 1892. The scope of the work is limited to the history and description of that particular stock or branch of Buddhism which has been established and continued in Ceylon. The book as now presented has been entirely re-written. Notice has been taken of such recent discoveries as have become known to the author, but the alterations are chiefly for clearness and better arrangement.
- Crane, Walter R. Gold and silver; comprising an economic history of mining in the United States, the geographical and geological occurrence of the precious metals, with their mineralogical associations, history and description of methods of mining and extraction of values, and a detailed discussion of the production of gold and silver in the world and the United States. - Dahlgren, Ulric, and Kepner, W: A. A textbook of the principles of animal histology. N. Y., Macmillan, 1908. 13+515 p. il. 8°, cl., *$3.75 net.
- Written to provide a work that covers the general field of histology, and is not restricted in the main to human and mammalian forms, as is the case with most other existing text-books in its class. The authors say that it is intended to be a work of general principles and to teach histology as a pure science and for its own sake. It exceeds the limits of an ordinary college text-book and becomes a foundation for the study of morphology and embryology, particularly with reference to a subsequent medical course. The book contains 470 illustrations, all newly and uniformly drawn, and mainly from the authors' own investigations.

- Foster, W: Trufant. Argumentation and debating. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., [1908.] c. 18+486 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.
- Author is professor of English and debating in Bowdoin College. Presents the essentials of the subject, simply following the order in which the difficulties arise in actual practice. The point of view is that of the student; the amount of practical material is larger than usual in manuals of this kind. Author claims there can be no better training for citizenship than a capacity for getting at both sides of a subject and learning to respect opinions that differ if they are founded on logical reasons.

- In the Austrian Tyrol Alois Harz, an artist of peasant birth, falls in love with Christian Devorell, an English girl. The opposition of her self-indulgent step-father, money-loving uncle, and affected aunt is increased by the discovery that Harz belonged in his youth to a society of Anarchists, escaped from the hands of the police, and is still liable to arrest while he remains in the country. Christian's step-father finally notifies the authorities of his whereabouts, but Harz escapes, with the unexpected help of the uncle. Eventually the hero and heroine marry and live comfortably in England.

- Mr. Gilbert is a geologist in the United States Geological Survey, and author of "Geology of Henry Mountains," and "Lake Bonneville," etc.; Mr. Brigham is professor of geology in Colgate University, and author of "Text-book of geology." The authors have striven to adapt the book to the earlier stages of the high-school course. To this end the statements are simple, technical terms are sparingly used, and when employed they are promptly defined.

Handbook of learned societies and institutions: America. Wash., D. C., Carnegie Institution of Washington, 1908. 8+3-592 p. O. (Carnegie Institution of Washington publication.) pap., gratis.

Important societies and institutions of North and South America are listed, with locations and addresses, followed in most cases by a brief statement of the history and object of the society concerned, and including data with regard to meetings, membership, publications, research funds, and prizes. The material has been compiled by Mrs. Lucy C. Daniels Thompson, assisted by Miss Mary F. Griffin, under the direction of J. David Thompson, of the Library of Congress, to which has been entrusted the supervision and expenditure of these handbooks, which are to cover the learned societies of the world.

International documents: a collection of international conventions and declarations of a law-making kind; ed., with introd. and notes, by E. A. Whittuck. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 38+228+229-252 p. O. cl., $3.50 net.

The author is one of the governors of the London School of Economics and Political Science. This handbook is intended to make the treaties it sets out in French and English more easily accessible, they being those which for the study of international law have most frequently to be consulted and compared. Pts. 1 and 2 of the texts thus brought together have been for some time in type, waiting for the results of the Hague Conference of 1907. Pt. 3, containing the Acts of this Conference, has been added as soon as possible, but as these Conventions have not yet been ratified this Part must be regarded for the present as supplementary.

Issued also, with an additional chapter and glossary, under title: "Graded lessons in physiology and hygiene." The keynote of this book is health. There has been no attempt to prepare an extended treatise on anatomy and psychology. It has been the purpose of the author to present in simple language to the children in the intermediate grades a knowledge of the conditions which tend to preserve and strengthen the body.

Under this figurative title the author presents facts about the care and building of the body in a way that will interest and impress children, and help them in forming daily habits likely to ensure future health and usefulness. The author believes that the reading and discussion of these facts in the sixth or seventh year in school will have most beneficial results. Technical terms and complicated physiological processes are avoided, and all the information is made to bear some practical application, or explain the reason for ordinary hygienic customs.

A young Boston lad, who grows up in a second-hand bookstore, from which his father manages to obtain a mere living, is the relator of the story. The incidents are unsensational and simply told, not without some humor. The characters are reminiscent of Dickens, especially the boy's father and mother. How they all rise from poverty to an unexpected fortune is the plot. A will hidden in an old book lies dormant in the old store for years. It is the last of many, by which a great-uncle bequeathes to the boy half of his fortune.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 11, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ON THE NECESSITY OF ORGANIZATION.

THE outcry against "trusts," originating in a wholesome desire to prevent combinations in restraint of trade and to punish concerns like the Standard Oil Company, which had been outrageous in its methods, has gone to an almost grotesque extreme in some quarters. Possibly President Roosevelt's utterances have been too much of a "bracer" in this direction, though he was combating an evil of undoubted reality and gigantic proportions. It is often an unfortunate outcome of such crusades that in extreme hands they become a reductio ad absurdum, as seems to be the case in Texas. There the attorney general is proposing a number of suits which, although they may prove to have no legal basis, are nevertheless disconcerting.

There is in Texas a very extreme law which the attorney general of that State is seeking to enforce against the American Book Company and against several educational publishers who are incidentally members of the American Publishers' Association. Such laws can only be enforced when they are within the limits of reasonableness and the suits have definite relation to actual facts. Should such a case arise it ought to be tried out in a test case as can be done only through concerted action. For the most part, such suits, especially when they demand extravagant damages, are apt to be in the nature of "bluffs," and should be stoutly resisted.

The American Book Company, whatever its original intention may have been, has never succeeded in being a trust. At its beginnings it took over the educational publications of a number of houses through purchase, and it was perhaps expected that so formidable a competitor would diminish the sales of smaller rivals and ultimately absorb the school book business. But this did not happen. Competition has been not less keen than before and the number of educational publishing houses is rather more than before, despite the large proportion of the school book business which is in the hands of the American Book Company. If we understand rightly, this is not in any legal or economic sense a trust, because it is not a combination of houses, but a commercial house which has purchased the specialty of educational books from other houses, most of which are still publishing other books and which we presume have now no organic or construal relation with the American Book Company.

It is still more untrue that the American Publishers' Association is in any sense a trust. First of all, it has never attempted jurisdiction over school books, its plan specifically excepting them, nor has it attempted control over the prices made by individual publishers. It has had nothing whatever to do with the pricing of books, or the limiting of their supply; therefore, an attempt to define it as a trust breaks down at the beginning. What it has done has been to equalize discounts, first by regulation and later by recommendation, among its members and by the trade. It has made some mistakes in doing this, but it has, on the whole, done a great service to the trade, and ultimately to the public. It has never sought to prevent low prices, but only to prevent the breaking down of trade through underselling. A frank exposition of its present status is likely to show any court that it is not open to legal objection or judicial criticism.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the houses constituting the American Publishers' Association, instead of being frightened by the Texas bugaboo or discouraged by the Macy decisions, may take heart to continue their good work and meet new conditions as they arrive. There are two great principles at issue in the present controversy. On the one side, the public are entitled through the law and the courts to be protected against unlawful combinations which do restrain trade against the public interest; on the other hand, every person—corporate firm or individual—doing business, whether in books or otherwise, is entitled to the application of the principle of freedom of contract in their individual transactions. The owner of property of any kind cannot be compelled to sell his property, except, under the principle of eminent domain, unless it pleases him to sell it. This is at the foundation of our business system and cannot be too stoutly upheld. The need of organization in defence of this principle is evident. We trust that the American Publishers' Association will be prepared to defend its members against attacks of this sort and from such quarters, rather than to leave each house to fight out the question, at greater expense and trouble, each for itself. Any other outcome would be a misfortune to the trade and ultimately to the principles of public justice, on which the interests of the public also depend.

THE APPELLATE DIVISION DECIDES AGAINST MACY & CO.

THE Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in New York City, on July 8, affirmed the decision of Judge Dowling, of the Supreme Court, rendered August 8, 1907, in the case of Macy vs. the American Publishers' Association, namely, that Macy & Co. are entitled to damages only in the case of non-copyright books. Judge Dowling's decision, now affirmed—Judges Scott, Houghton and Clark assenting and Judges Ingraham and McLaughlin dissenting—was as follows:

"A careful examination of the testimony and exhibits herein leads me to the conclusion that it is impossible to differentiate the legal propositions now presented for determination from those which were judicially settled by the Court of Appeals by its prior decisions herein, and which were raised by demurrer (177 N. Y., 473). The question is not one of the interpretation of the copyright laws of the United States, and therefore the contention of plaintiff's counsel that the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit should supersede that of the Court of Appeals is incorrect, even if there were no conflict of decisions (as there is) between the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in different circuits. The issue herein is as to the construction and application of a New York State statute (chap. 690, Laws of 1899), and the Court of Appeals of this State having defined and determined the extent to which the acts complained of are in contravention of the statute, its decision is final and conclusive. It follows, therefore, that in consonance with the decision of Chief Justice Parker, writing for the majority of the court, plaintiffs are entitled to judgments, with costs, against defendants, restraining them from interfering in any way with the sale of uncopyrighted books to plaintiffs, and for the damages which plaintiffs have sustained by reason of defendant's unlawful acts in the premises."

Macy will now appeal to the Court of Appeals.

FIRST EDITIONS OF DICKENS IN AMERICA.

"It is well known," as The Nation points out, "that American editions of several of Thackeray's books were published prior to the recognized first English editions. Some were collections of magazine contributions issued with the authority of their author, but many were pirated or unauthorized."

To a less extent the same thing is true of Dickens. Two pamphlets of this character not included in any of the published bibliographies of Dickens have recently turned up. The first has the title:

"Public Life of Mr. Tulrumble, Once Mayor of Mudfog, and Oliver Twist; or, The Paris Boy's Progress. By 'Boz.' Sold by all the Principal Booksellers. New-York 1837."

"This contains 52 pages, measuring 6 $\frac{7}{8}$ by 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches, in pink paper covers. Of the two sketches mentioned on the title, the first, 'Public Life of Mr. Tulrumble,' appeared in the first number of Bentley's Miscellany, January, 1837. The second, the first two chapters of Oliver Twist, appeared in Bentley's for February. No doubt they were reprinted as soon as the February number of the magazine reached America. Chapters III and IV appeared in the March number; but this pamphlet contains no mention of any continuation.

When Oliver Twist was published in three volumes, 8vo, the next year, some alterations were made. The first sentence in the magazine and in this pamphlet begins: 'Among other public buildings in the town of Mudfog,' etc. In the first and later editions this is altered to 'In a certain town which for many reasons it will be prudent to refrain from mentioning,' etc.

"The second of these pamphlets is entitled:

"Travelling Letters. Written on the Road. By Charles Dickens. New York: Wiley & Putnam, 161 Broadway. 1846."

"This is a 12mo, consisting of title and 22 pages of text, bound in brown paper. The pamphlet is very thin, but the wrapper is lettered lengthwise 'Dickens' Travelling Letters.—Part I,' showing that when the cover was printed the intention was to make the volume much thicker.

Dickens visited Italy in 1844 and 1845. On his return he contributed a series of articles to the Daily News, No. 1 of which was issued under his editorship, January 21, 1846. These sketches continued irregularly through January, February and March. Later in the year they were collected in book form as 'Pictures from Italy.' The three 'Letters' included in this pamphlet appeared in the Daily News for January 21, 24 and 31. Together they fill pp. 1-37 of the first English edition.

The date at the beginning of the narrative which is 'eighteen hundred and forty-four' in the first edition, as it was in fact, is 'eighteen hundred and forty-five, in this pamphlet.

On the publication of the English edition Wiley and Putnam brought out an American edition, 'Price 38 cents.' It is not likely that more than this Part I. of these letters was ever published in this form."

PHOTOGRAPHY WITHOUT CAMERAS.

PROFESSOR GABRIEL LIPPMANN, the discoverer of color photography, has just made another discovery that, if found practicable, will revolutionize the art of photography. According to the Paris correspondent of the New York Times, when his discovery has been perfected in a few of its details, cameras in general may be done away with, and the photograph will give the same effect of relief and perspective which can be secured now only by use of the stereoscope. The film, or sensitive plate, is put in an ordinary plate holder, and placed in front of the object or landscape which it is desired to photograph. The slide is opened and shut and the operation is finished. It will be impossible, however, according to Professor Lippmann to reproduce this new photography in printing. It is no good for photogravure. For pictures reproduced in the newspapers the stereoscope must still be used.

In describing his new discovery Professor Lippmann explained that "the constitution of a photographic apparatus is analogous in many respects to that of the human eye. As a result, if we wish to obtain perspective and relief we are forced to use the stereoscope. I was long convinced that if I could produce the image as it appears on the eye of a fly, I should have my stereoscopic effect direct. The eye of this class of insect is composed of a large number of minute facets. Each of these facets reproduces a corner of the object or landscape presented to it. The ensemble of the facets gives the complete picture. I therefore set to work to find some preparation which would give a similar result.

"After a good deal of research, I evolved a collodion film, upon which I placed a thin layer of sensitive gelatine finely honeycombed. This honeycombing process created a multitude of globules—to be exact, twenty-five to each square millimeter. In the layer of collodion each of these globules forms two hemispheres. That which is in front, toward the exterior, is of much smaller radius than that which is behind, and which offers a larger curve. The first hemisphere plays the rôle of the objective; the second retains the image. Each globule reproduces the totality of the picture, but permits the eye to distinguish only that point coming within the radius of vision. In virtue of its power of accommodating itself to circumstances, the eye groups all the visible points together, and the sum total makes the complete picture. Thus, the eye, while seeing a single image, sees it under all its aspects. Move the photograph to left or to right, and the relief and perspective change, because the eye encounters a different set of points."

PICK-UPS.

AUTHOR AND MANAGER.—"Yes, your play pleases me. I will produce it; but I don't intend to run any risks of a misunderstanding. Please sign this paper authorizing me to rewrite the dialogue, introduce another set of characters, and change the name!"—Le Rire.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE REV. ALEXANDER VIETS GRISWOLD ALLEN, for more than forty years professor of ecclesiastical history at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, died on July 2 at his home in Cambridge. Professor Allen was born at Otis, Mass., May 4, 1841, and was educated at Kenyon College. He was ordained deacon in 1865, and the following year was ordained priest. From 1865 to 1867 he was rector of St. John's Church at Lawrence, Mass., and then was appointed to a professorship at the Cambridge Theological School, which he occupied till his death. Professor Allen was the author of "Continuity of Christian Thought," "Life of Jonathan Edwards," "Religious Progress," "Christian Institutions," "Life and Letters of Phillips Brooks," and "Freedom in the Church," the latter causing a great deal of comment in church circles, following so closely as it did upon the Crapsey incident.

JONAS LAURITZ EDEMIL LIE, one of the leading authors of Norway, died at Christiania, Norway, on July 5. Lie was born November 6, 1833. He was an associate of Björnson and Ibsen at Christiania, where he studied law before he began his career in literature, journalism and teaching. He belonged to the French naturalistic school of writers and had special knowledge of sea and coast life and depicted it with sympathy and humor. His most widely-known novel is "The Pilot and His Wife," published in 1874. He received a travelling stipend from the government and later a poet's pension. He spent twelve years in German cities and in Paris, and when he returned to Norway in 1893 the occurrence was celebrated by a national festival. Among his works that have been translated into English are the great novel already mentioned, "The Visionary," "One of Life's Slaves," "Weird Tales from Northern Seas," and "Niobe."

MURAT HALSTEAD, a leader in American journalism for upwards of fifty years, died in Cincinnati on July 2. Mr. Halstead was born on a farm in Butler County, O., about twenty miles from Cincinnati, September 2, 1829. While still a student in Farmer's College, from which he was graduated in 1851, he contributed to The Cincinnati Atlas, with which he became associated after leaving college. He was connected at different times with the Cincinnati Commercial, The New York Extra, and the Brooklyn Standard Union. For forty years he reported the national political conventions. He saw several wars as a correspondent, and his criticisms of the conduct of the armies in the Franco-Prussian war were so vigorous and forcible that they gained him the title of "Field Marshal." In recent years Mr. Halstead wrote a number of books. Among them are "Our Country in War," "The Story of Cuba," "The Story of the Philippines," "Official History of the War with Spain," "Life of President McKinley," "Life of Admiral Dewey," "The Boer and British War," and "The War Between Russia and Japan."

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ("Uncle Remus,") died at Atlanta, Ga., on July 3. Mr. Harris was born at Eatonton, Ga., December 9, 1848. He began to earn his living as a printer at twelve years of age, working in the office of The Countryman, a weekly paper published on the plantation of Joseph A. Turner, nine miles from Eatonton. Here the young boy had opportunity to make a wide acquaintance with the best literature in the library of Mr. Turner. Here he also gathered from the negroes on the plantation the folk-lore and superstitions of which he later made such telling use. Mr. Turner fled at the approach of Sherman's army in 1864, and after the close of the war Georgia was in such distress that young Harris went to New Orleans and found work on The Crescent Monthly. Later he moved to Savannah and worked on The News. There he married Miss La Rose, a Canadian girl, in 1873, studied law and for a short time practised law in Forsyth, Ga. In 1876 Mr. Harris found a place on the editorial staff of The Constitution, of which paper he later became editor. To The Constitution he first contributed the folk-lore tales of the negroes and he created "Uncle Remus" and the little nephew for the Sunday issues of that paper. When "Uncle Remus" appeared in book form Harris wrote for it an introduction on Afro-American folk-lore which attracted the attention of philologists and students in Europe as well as in this country. "The New International Encyclopedia" says of Mr. Harris: "No one has more successfully portrayed the humorous side of negro character and imagination, but it would be injustice to him to think that he has not also given an admirable picture of Georgia life in general, especially of the thrifty as well as of the thriftless rural inhabitants." Mr. Harris was before all a practical journalist and during many years he has provided for a constantly growing constituency to whom he was "Uncle Remus." Among his best-known books are all the "Uncle Remus" volumes; "Mingo and Other Sketches in Black and White," "Free Joe and Other Georgia Sketches," "On the Plantation," "Little Mr. Thimblefinger," "Daddy Jake, the Runaway," "Balaam and His Master," "Gabriel Tolliver," "The Tar Baby Story," "Mr. Rabbit at Home," etc. Last year he started Uncle Remus's Magazine, which, since it absorbed The Home Magazine, has been entitled Uncle Remus's The Home Magazine.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS has returned from his trip abroad. His travel papers, "Roman Holidays," contributed to the New York Sun, will probably appear in book form this fall.

THE Paris correspondent of the London Athenæum states that M. Maeterlinck is working at his home in Normandy on his new drama, "Marie-Magdeleine." The writer adds that "in spite of what this title seems to hint, the subject matter of the play is not mystical, and the new work has nothing to do with dramas of dream and legend; it is rather in the style of 'Monna Vanna,' which marks an evolution of Maeterlinck's talent toward reality and drama meant for the stage." This play is to be acted next winter.

WHILE Mrs. Ward was in America, or more properly in Canada, she celebrated her fifty-seventh birthday, which occurred June 11. Mrs. Ward's birthplace was not England, but Tasmania, where she was first known as Mary Augusta Arnold, granddaughter of the famous Dr. Arnold who wrote the "Tom Brown" stories, and as the niece of Matthew Arnold. Another relative of note was her brother, William Thomas Arnold, the journalist and historian, upon whose "Life and Letters" Mrs. Ward collaborated, in a volume imported by the Harpers into this country, with Arnold's friend, C. E. Montague.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Benjamin F. Cator has been appointed receiver for the Doxey Bookshop Company. The company consents to the receivership, saying that it has on hand a large stock of stationery and books in excess of its liabilities, but that owing to the stringency it is unable to realize upon them in time to meet its obligations.

PORTLAND, ME.—Loring, Short & Harmon have shown quick work in already having temporarily housed their various departments, so as to interfere as little as possible with the conduct of the business. The retail department is being located in the Hooper Building for the present, and the wholesale department will go to the store on Exchange Street formerly occupied by Hall L. Davis. The bindery will be located in the Lakeside Press Building for the time being, while the card plate business will be done at Abner W. Lowell's, on Congress Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have made arrangements with President Roosevelt to publish the stories he intends to write on his experiences in Africa when he goes there to hunt big game next year. They have acquired the serial as well as the book rights. This is a prize that was also eagerly but unsuccessfully sought by a number of other publishers.

B. W. DODGE & Co. have in preparation a volume of poems entitled "The Quiet Singer," by Charles Hanson Towne, editor of Smart Set; also, "The Broken Snare," described as a psychological romance, by Ludwig Lewisohn, a well-known contributor to the magazines.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish shortly "Memorials of Two Sisters: Susanna and Catherine Winkworth," edited by their niece, which will contain several letters of literary interest. They have in press Andrew Lang's "Life of Sir George Mackenzie, the King's Advocate, 1636-91," with portraits. Many unpublished letters have been consulted, and an account is given of Mackenzie's novel "Aretina."

THE FRANK ALLABEN GENEALOGICAL COMPANY, 3 W. Forty-second Street, New York City, will publish this month a "Life of General John Watts de Peyster," by Frank Allaben, who was fortunate in finding a large part of his material in an autobiography found after the death of the doughty old soldier, writer and philanthropist. The publishers announce that this is to be the first of a series of biographies of distinguished Americans.

THE OUTING PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish this month a book entitled "The Last of the Frontiersmen," by Dr. Zane Grey. It is partly an account of a hunting trip through the wildest region of Arizona—the north rim of the Grand Canyon—and partly a study of the celebrated old frontiersman, Buffalo Jones, who was the leader of the party. The object of the expedition was to lasso and capture alive mountain lions, at which dangerous sport Buffalo Jones is an expert.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY will bring out shortly Richard Mansfield's great success, "Beau Brummel." The play has been mistakenly referred to in connection with its production on the stage as by Clyde Fitch and Richard Mansfield. The play was written by Clyde Fitch for Richard Mansfield, and the authorship is so noted on the title-page of the book. A number of full-page plates showing Richard Mansfield and other members of his company in character are included among the illustrations. The frontispiece will be a reproduction of a portrait of the actor with facsimile autograph.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS publish this week "Villa Rubein," by John Galsworthy, a story with characters all of nature's stamp and strangely contrasted; the fourth and concluding volume of "The Writings of Samuel Adams," edited by Dr. Harry Alonzo Cushing; H. Stuart Jones's volume on "The Roman Empire, B.C. 29 A.D. 476," in The Story of the Nations series; also, the second volume of Dr. Lucien Howe's important work on "The Muscles of the Eye," devoted to the pathology and treatment of the subject. They will bring out on the 15th inst. "Marotz," by John Ayscough, a present-day story containing vivid word pictures of Southern Italian and Sicilian life.

DUFFIELD & Co. have in preparation for the fall Elinor Glyn's new book, "Elizabeth Visits America." In it the Elizabeth of former years and European experiences comes to this country and gives her impressions of the people and things she finds here. They promise for September a volume entitled "Scottish Women of the Past," by Harry Graham, author of "Misrepresentative Men," etc. This will be Captain Graham's first serious prose work. In it he has collected a number of types of Scottish feminine character, presented in a series of biographical portraits, in which he aims to suggest something of the general life and manners of the particular period to which the main figures of his book belong.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a novel by Myra Kelly, entitled "Sheila," a story of an Irish girl in Ireland. Interspersed with the story are pictures of life in Ireland as it was in 1880, the time of the Phoenix Park murders, a period marked by unusually exciting political campaigns. Like the author's short stories, there is a good deal of humor in the book mixed with a strain of pathos that is somewhat new to her. On their list of juvenile books to be brought out this fall is a volume by Molly Elliot Seawell, author of "Little Jarvis," etc., entitled "The Imprisoned Midshipmen," the story of two boys who sailed as midshipmen under Commodore Bainbridge and were taken prisoners by the Tripolitans after the heroic fight which attended the capture of the famous old frigate Philadelphia.

GROSSET & DUNLAP have just ready a new book by L. T. Meade, entitled "Betty of the Rectory." Betty is said to be a veritable "Angel in the House," and one of the most charming characters created by Mrs. Meade. Burdened on the eve of her marriage with the knowledge that her husband-to-be held a dread secret which she would not have him reveal, she bravely lives her life as the wife of the rector. When the secret does come out she sets herself as bravely to fight the great evil which threatens ruin to her loved one and to herself. How she fought and conquered, influenced and controlled the other characters forms a story by a practised hand that never fails to weave a fascinating romance.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY have just completed arrangements with Professor James H. Moffatt for the publication of "A Dictionary of the Proper Names in Shakespeare's Works." The book is the result of experience as a teacher and editor of Shakespeare. Mr. Moffatt is a graduate of Princeton, and for the last eight years has been Professor of English Literature at the Central High School of Philadelphia. The plan of the dictionary is very simple but thorough. All the proper names in Shakespeare's works, whether dramatris personæ or scenes or names used as illustrations, will be included in alphabetical order. This book will appeal to every student of Shakespeare, for in it can be found the only complete references to all places in which Shakespeare refers to the names directly or indirectly. Mr. Moffatt is now at work on the book in Oxford and London.

FUNK & WAGNALLS are about to publish a practical book on "How to Get a Position and How to Keep It," by S. Roland Hall, who has been connected with a large correspondence school and has had much experience in getting positions for young men. He gives much practical advice on letters of application, personal application, what is good and bad form, etc. They also expect to have ready this month a volume entitled "A Common-sense View of the Mind Cure," by Laura M. Westall, who would explain and justify a good deal of the success of the mind cure as applied to a great many illnesses. Her book does not endeavor to show that the mind can cure actual organic diseases, but rather the common functional disorders can be cured or driven away by the use of will power. The book is scientific, and is in no way to be regarded as a contribution to Christian Science, in the ordinary sense of the word.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "In Ship and Prison," by William P. Chipman, the incidents of which are taken from the logbook of Captain Samuel Tucker, and picture the stirring times in which he lived and the thrilling adventures in which he engaged. His prowess on the sea, his wonderful naval manœuvres, his capture by the British, his escape from their prison, will arouse the patriotism and admiration of every young American, for the brave captain, who as yet has never come into his own, in the hearts of his countrymen. The book has four half-tone illustrations. For older readers they have also just ready "In Borderland and the Blue Beyond," by Mrs. Leigh Gross Day, author of "In Shadow Town." The author has this time used her camera, brush and pen to tell by verse and picture of that sweet, indefinable time when children linger with reluctant feet on the border of manhood and womanhood. She takes her readers on a bit further—down the "primrose path" of courtship as her fancy sees it, where the first flutter of the love god's wings makes the maiden shy and the lover bold.

W. H. MINER, Cedar Rapids, Ia., will publish for the Dickens Fellowship a volume entitled "The Dickens Ball." The volume contains a reprint of the account in the New York Aurora of the ball given in honor of Charles Dickens on his first visit to this country in 1842. This broadside in itself is of utmost rarity and contains not only the story of the event, but reproduces portraits of Dickens and his wife, and a scene from the brilliant affair. Into this work entered the highest newspaper art of its time—including sarcasm and comment—well adapted to cause prejudice and ill feeling upon the part of the individual to whom it referred. As the Englishman was the lion of the day it is easy to believe that this publication has become very scarce and it has therefore been reprinted in its entirety and made particularly interesting to the collector by the addition of a commentary on the text by W. P. Beazell, and the inclusion of a letter from Dickens to Foster relating to the subject. The edition is limited. Two hundred and six copies are being made and will be ready for delivery about August first.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will publish shortly an untechnical account of the rise and progress of biology, entitled "Biology and Its Makers," by Professor William A. Loey, of Northwestern University. The work is written around the lives of the great leaders in this field, and includes some 120 illustrations, many of them rare portraits of the founders of biology. They will publish next month a work entitled "Canadian Types of the Old Régime," by Charles W. Colby, Professor of History in McGill University. The history of French civilization in this country, as handled by Professor Colby, is grouped around the personalities of Champlain, the explorer; Brebeuf, the missionary; Hebert, the colonist; D'Iberville, the soldier; Talon, the intendant; Laval, the Bishop, and Frontenac, the Governor. There are also chapters on the historical background of the subject, as well as on the results of the English conquest. The book will contain eighteen illustrations. Another August book will be "Angel, Esquire," by Edgar Wallace, a detective story, in which an inexperienced girl contends with three daring criminals for an inheritance mounting up into the millions.

THE MCCLURE COMPANY have just ready the second edition of "The Wayfarers," by Mary Stewart Cutting, author of "Little Stories of Married Life," etc., in which she depicts middle-class American life on a large scale; also, in their Country Home Library, a volume on "The Vegetable Garden," by Miss Ida Bennett, author of "The Flower Garden," in the same series. Besides dealing fully with the various vegetables that form the staple of the small garden, this book has excellent chapters on tools, all thoroughly up to date and full of practical information. They have in preparation a book by Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., entitled "A Woman's Way Through Unknown Labrador." The tragedy of the Hubbard expedition of 1903, undertaken under the auspices of The Outing Magazine, and of how Leonidas Hubbard missed his way and died of starvation in the wilderness, is well known. The account of his journey was unfinished, but his devoted wife essays to complete his task. In July, 1905, after the recovery of her husband's body, she started from Hudson Bay post on the Northwest River, accompanied by four men, one of them her husband's former companion, George Elson, and a Cree Indian, a Russian half breed and a young Eskimo. The journey through the wilderness along the mountain bear paths and river rapids occupied forty-three days and they travelled 576 miles from post to post. The result is a book of marvellous fascination.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 6 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

Who Is She? What Is She?

The siren's song that lured Ulysses was not more captivating than hers.
There never was so tantalizing a heroine.
Who is she? What is she? Is she indeed a queen of hearts? — Boston Globe.
